While there are numerous Grief Ministries that use a multitude of materials, programs, and courses ranging from a few weeks to multiple months, there is one goal for each of these ministries, which is to help those left behind and, with God's help to find comfort, peace, and a new purpose. Develop a camaraderie among those who have and are currently going through the Grief Journey. All those who have suffered loss and those trying to support them are welcome at these programs. It is also recommended that taking these courses even more than once can be beneficial, as well as joining an after-grief support group.
